

The 5 Ws of Homeschooling

Who should homeschool?

You, your friend, anyone looking for an alternative to traditional classroom schooling. Maybe the public schools are no longer meeting your needs. Homeschooling is flexible and is able to accommodate many lifestyles.

What is homeschooling?

Homeschooling is managing academics and learning through home education. The parent manages curriculum and progress. Homeschooling can look different from family to family because there are many options available and so many resources.

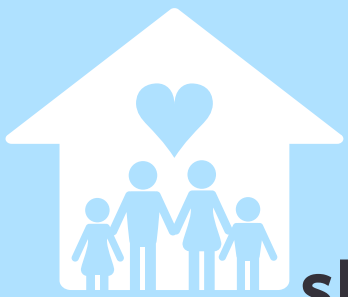

When should you homeschool?

Right now! You can begin homeschooling whenever you are ready - in the middle of the school year, during summer break, anytime. You are NEVER committed to an entire school year without the option to withdraw and homeschool.

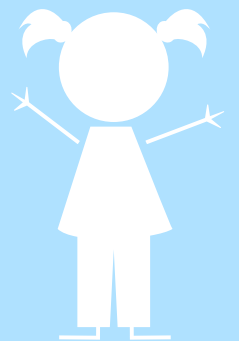

Where do you homeschool?

At your home, at the park, at the beach, anywhere. More seriously, homeschool options vary by state. You can privately homeschool, work with the public schools independent study programs, or enroll in a homeschool charter school.

Why should you homeschool?

Academic freedom. Flexibility. Personalized education. Family bonding. Improve social interactions. Positive learning environment. Opportunities for adventure - worldschooling. There are so many reasons to homeschool, why are you thinking about it?

Learn How to Homeschool, visit us!

www.thecoophomeschool.com